BIG FIGHT DUE ON WEDNESDAY

Question as to Whether Primary or Taxation Bill Take Precedence, To Be Settled Then.

TO DELAY PRIMARY

Indications Point That the Senate Will Put Off Discussion for Some Weeks Yet.

(By Staff Correspondent) Madison, Wis., March 2.—Will railway taxation be given the right of way and primary election relegated to the background for the time being? Interest in the Wisconsin legislature this week centers on this question. The efforts of the conservative senators are being devoted to securing this result, and they have a fair chance of being successful.

Test Wednesday

The test will be made in Wednesday, when the primary bill comes up in the senate, recommended for passage by the majority of the committee on privileges and elections, with Chairman Morse and Senator Whitehead dissenting. When the bill is reached some conservative senator will move to have action on it delayed for three weeks, until March 25. A speech from Senator Whitehead is expected, in which he will urge the importance of the taxation bills as a reason for deferring action on the primary measure.

Close Vote

That the vote will be close both sides concede. The stalwarts evince more confidence in being able to secure delay than do the administration in being able to block the move, the latter admitting doubt as to the votes of three senators whom they say will vote for the bill on its final passage, but may vote to defer action. Two of the democratic senators, North and Randolph, are now counted as certain to vote with the conservatives, and the chances appear to be in favor of the move for delay.

As A Club

Whether the conservatives intend to hold the primary back as a club with which to force favorable action in the railway taxation bill—"favorable action" being construed as action which will be acceptable to the railway companies—or whether they merely want to show their power in the upper house, is not clearly apparent.

Certainly, it is, however, that they are bending all their energies to securing delay on the primary. If this should fail, they will be ready with numerous amendments to the bill, and will endeavor to have it sent back to the committee for their consideration there. One argument the conservatives are using against the bill is that it emanates from a democrat, the measure reported by the committee being the second Merton bill, substituted for the one passed by the assembly. About the only difference between the two is that the Merton bill provides for a state convention to construct the platform, while the assembly bill provided for the making of the platform at a meeting of the candidates. COMMON COUNCIL HAS MUCH WORK

City Lighting Plant and the Street Railway Franchise Question Comes Up Tonight.

A regular session of the common council will be held this evening at 7:30 at the council chamber.

City Plant

Among the important matters to come up this evening for consideration will be Alderman Rice's resolution in regard to a municipal electric lighting plant, under which he wishes the question to be submitted to a vote of the people at the coming spring election.

The Franchise

The application for a franchise by the Southern Wisconsin Interurban railroad company, will also be presented for action on the part of the council, and will in all probability be referred to committee for further consideration.

An order for the establishment of a grade on Milwaukee avenue looking toward the improvement of that street during the coming summer was recently introduced by Alderman Judd some time ago.

ADDICKS QUILTS FIGHT FOR THE SENATORSHIP

Gives Up the Battle After Thirteen Years and Announces Withdrawal From the Race.

Wilmington, Del., March 2.—J. Edward Addicks has struck his flag after a thirteen years' battle to win a seat in the United States senate. Fearing that the Democrats and regular Republicans in the legislature were about to form a coalition to fill the senatorial vacancies, the Addicks leaders went to Philadelphia, visited Addicks in his office and told him that he must withdraw. The ultimatum was delivered by Secretary of State Caleb R. Layton, who was accompanied by State Chairman and Senator J. Frank Allee, and other members of the legislature.

Addicks refused to credit their declaration that "the game was up" at first, but all the conferees seemed to side against him, he finally consented to sign a paper accepting the proposal of the regular Republicans, that one union Republican and one regular Republican senator should be elected, neither of them to be Addicks. Layton and Allee also signed this paper, and it was sent to the regulars. There is little doubt that they will accept it, as it embodies terms which they have repeatedly offered.

Addicks said he hoped Allee would be chosen as the union Republican senator, and this probably will be done. Congressman L. H. Ball probably will be chosen by the regulars for their senator.

MISS LINA JOHNS TAKES BRIEF REST

Suffers from Strain of School Work and Goes to Her Home in Dodgeville.

Miss Lina Johns, instructor in botany and physical geography at the Janeville High school, has been compelled to give up her work temporarily owing to ill health. Miss Johns is on the verge of nervous prostration and last Friday she went to Madison to consult her physician and on his advice she went directly to her home in Dodgeville. It is thought that a week's rest may enable Miss Johns to return to her work and in the meantime her classes will be heard by her sister, Miss Mabel Johns who arrived in the city from Dodgeville this morning.

Miss Johns has been failing in health for some time and recently the biological and chemical laboratories at the high school building were changed around. The room formerly occupied by the biological laboratory was above the manual training department and it was thought that by moving it and thus relieving Miss Johns of the constant jar and noise from the machinery it might have a beneficial effect on her nervous condition. It is hoped that a few days of complete rest will restore her to her former strength.

Such shipments have been made almost monthly by Galbraith and Son. Since October this is the sixth shipment to Manitoba and the third to Washington. In order to hasten the trip the horses were this time sent by express. Graham Galbraith accompanied the Manitoba lot.

There is little doubt but that the bill will be favorably reported.

EXTRA SESSION MEETS MARCH 5

Date Is Set So That the New Senators May Arrive in Washington in Time.

WORK IS PLANNED

Will Settle the Panama Canal Question and Also the Cuban Reciprocity Treaty.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.)

Washington, D. C., March 2.—President Roosevelt this morning called an extra session of the senate to begin its sessions on March 5th. This date was set so that many of the newly elected senators can arrive in time.

Ratify Treaties

Although the purposes are not set forth in detail it is generally understood that the object is for the ratification of the Panama canal treaty and the Cuban reciprocity bill which have been delayed.

It Was Expected

This extra session was expected at this time owing to the filibustering that has been going on in the senate for two weeks past in Morgan's attempt to block the Panama canal treaty.

Aug. 1, 1903

One change in the bill made by the committee was a provision which makes the law operative from January 1 of the present year. The board is to determine the value of the railway property and certify the amount of taxes levied upon the several companies to the state treasurer on or before August 1, 1903. The bill also requires the railroad companies to furnish the information desired by the board within thirty days after notice from the board. Another change is made by the cutting out of the provision for an expert engineer and expert accountant to assist the board in determining the railway valuation, the committee reporting a separate bill providing for these, in order to obviate the necessity of sending the whole bill to the committee on claims where all bills carrying an appropriation must go.

KILLS GUARD IN WASHINGTON JAIL

Prisoner Shoots His Guard and Also the Jailer, Then Escapes.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.)

Olympia, March 2.—Christ Benson, a prisoner in the county jail, last night killed Jailer David Merrill and escaped. He took the jailor's revolver and after shooting him twice attempted to liberate the prisoners. Sheriff Mills' wife frustrated this by holding him at bay with a shot gun.

MONROE FACTORY NOT THIS YEAR

Lack of Seed Will Prevent Erection of P. Hohenadel, Jr., Canning Plant.

P. Hohenadel, Jr., has definitely informed Monroe citizens, in a letter to Robert A. Etter, that scarcity of seed corn will prevent his erecting a cannery factory in that city this year. He does not intend to abandon the project, but hopes that next year it will be possible to complete the plans begun this season. Both in the East and the West efforts to secure seed corn in the desired quantity were unsuccessful. It will not be possible to operate more than the present number of plants. Mr. Hohenadel hopes to interest the Monroe farmers in cucumber raising this season. The local plant can handle the product of seventy-five or one hundred acres from that locality.

His Repentance Was Real.

W. L. Coombs, a Rock Island seaman foreman of Liberal, Kan., shot and killed Arthur Smith last June, but was not convicted. He was converted at a Salvation Army meeting recently, and as the result he has turned all his property over to the mother of his victim and agreed to pay her $20 a month as long as she lives.

American Boys Would Resent This.

Sport is apparently not considered a necessary element in a French schoolboy's education. An order has just gone forth from the director general of elementary schools forbidding masters to allow their pupils to play leap frog, football, rounders, tops, hop-scotch and other games.

MANY ATTEND THE SERVICES

STATIONS AT ST. MARY'S CANONICALLY ERECTED SUNDAY.

FATHER WARD OFFICIATED

Beloit Rector, Assisted by Rev. Father Goebel, Performs Ceremony of Blessing.

St. Mary's Catholic church was packed to the doors Sunday afternoon to witness the canonical erection of the beautiful new stations. Father M. J. Ward of Beloit had been delegated in the place of the archbishop to perform, in which he was assisted by Father W. A. Goebel, rector of St. Mary's.

Special care had been taken in the arrangement of the musical part of the service. Promptly at three o'clock the service began with the Cujus Animam from Rossini's Stabat Mater, arranged for cornet and organ, and given Prof. W. T. Thiele and Miss Tessie Gibbons. Following it the Veni Creator was intoned by Father Ward, the theme being taken by the choir.

Stations Were Blessed

Sprinkling with holy water and incensing the fourteen stations then followed, Father Ward and the attendant procession going the rounds twice. During this part of the ceremony the choir rendered the Gregorian Stabat Mater. Then the service changed from Latin to English. At each station in succession the procession halted. The subject of the station, depicting one of the stages of the sorrowful journey from Jerusalem to Calvary, was briefly described and a prayer of meditation said, the congregation mentally following the pathetic scenes described.

When this formality had been gone through with at each of the stations the choir gave O Salutaris by Gounod. Father Ward then addressed the congregation speaking of the significance of the stations, and the blessing attendant upon the proper use of the privilege attached to them.

Necessity of Pardon

We are all human beings, said Father Ward, and at best but poor and trivial creatures, circumscribed by the time and space. At times we boast that we are more, but it is only idle vanity. In view of this many men have puzzled over a way to reach a higher condition. The egotistical philosopher boasts that there is no God. The Christian, however, realizes the vast chasm that separates man from God, the natural from the supernatural.

By Christ's coming this chasm is bridged over. His incarnation as a human being, his death on the cross, is the foundation of the entire system of religion.

Material objects placed before our eyes lead us on the way forward and upward. Why do we have churches? That we may have some set place, shut off from the world, where we may worship God.

Miracle of Baptism

Another material aid to salvation is the rite of baptism. Through its agency a miraculous transformation takes place. By the sprinkling of holy water and the pronunciation of certain words the child of wrath becomes the child of God. God is a God of mercy. A certain woman was once caught in the act of sinning. The Jewish law prescribed that she should be stoned. Some Jews were curious to know whether Jesus Christ who preached mercy would transgress law to show mercy. They took the woman to him and asked what should be done.

Christ stooped to the earth with his finger he wrote in the sand the sins of all of the men who were present. They all saw before them their transgressions. He then said: "Let him that hath no sin throw the first stone." Their questionings were answered.

Every day we sin. In every way do we sin. But Almighty God's grace is in abundance.

Efficacy of Stations

One of the most efficacious means of securing the grace of God is by going from one to another to all of the fourteen stations, meditating upon the terrible journey which Christ once took.

Since the earliest days of the church this custom has been followed. After Christ's death the early disciples would go on by themselves along the way that he had trod, reviewing the journey which he had made. As the church grew it became a goal for pilgrims. Later stations were erected in commemoration of the route from Jerusalem to Calvary, and the custom was established by the church.

No Set Form

There are no prescribed prayers for the penitent who makes the round of the stations. All that is needful is to think earnestly of the sufferings which are depicted. "Lord have mercy" is an adequate prayer. It is a hardened sinner who is not touched by the stations. If they have no effect upon him his case is well nigh hopeless.

In passing Father Ward referred to the beauty of the stations in St. Mary's. He doubted whether there were any more beautiful in the state. He had considered those in his church in Beloit beautiful, but he was obliged to admit that they were surpassed.

After the sermon the service closed with the benediction of the blessed sacrament. The closing musical numbers were the Tantum Ergo by Lambellotto and the Gregorian Laudate Dominum.

Mrs. Austin's Buckwheat has a world wide reputation on account of its purity and genuine buckwheat flavor. Don't forget the name.

BAND DANCES WILL END FOR PRESENT

Imperial Band Gave Pleasant Dance Saturday Evening—The Last Until After Lent.

The Imperial Band Saturday evening dispensed music for the last dance which they propose giving until after Lent. A bitter wind tended to thin the crowd which flocked to Assembly hall. The Beloiters who had been present the preceding week were not in evidence. Dancing continued until a late hour, to the infinite delight of those who were present. It is not regarded by the band management as wise to resume the series until the Lenten discipline is relaxed.

PROF. THIELE IS GIVEN FINE BATON

Men in Pinafore Present Musical Director with a Handsome Conductor's Baton.

In substantial acknowledgement of his services in connection with the preparation and production of "Pinafore," the men who took part in that opera yesterday presented Prof. W. T. Thiele with a handsome director's baton. The presentation took place at St. Mary's church immediately before Sunday morning high mass. As president of the St. Cecilia society, Peter Neuses acted as spokesman for the donors.

It had been planned to present the baton on the second night of "Pinafore" but it had not arrived at the time, and the gift was delayed until yesterday. The baton is of very neat and attractive design. An ivory handle and a stick of ebony are connected by a sterling silver ferrule. When not in use the baton rests in a velvet lined case of morocco leather. On a silver scroll is the inscription: "To Prof. W. T. Thiele, Pinafore, Feb. 9 and 10, 1903."

LEWIS RIDER WON ONE MORE AWARD

Skillful Amateur Photographer Receives Honorary Mention in Sunday Paper Competition.

In Lewis L. Rider of 205 South Academy street, Janesville has an amateur photographer of considerably more than average ability. His work has shown up in especial prominence in the weekly photographic contest of the Milwaukee Sentinel. Mr. Rider has submitted number of photographs and has repeatedly won prize awards and honorary mentions. In the Sunday Sentinel of this week he was again given first honorary mention.

The photograph which was awarded that distinction was entitled "A Terrible Catastrophe," and was reproduced in the magazine section of the paper. It belongs to the general class of "trick" photographs. The subject is a young man who has evidently attempted to hang a picture and come to grief. His feet are still in air, while his head is in contact with the floor. His hamper is falling but has not yet reached the floor.

HE WAS ATTACKED ON MAIN STREET

John Osmond Slashed for Protecting His Sister from Unknown, Who Embraced Her.

Because John Osmond ventured to remonstrate with an unknown "Jack the Hugger," who annoyed Osmond's sister last night, Osmond is now confined to his home on North River street with a deep gash in his nose. Osmond, with two of his sisters, was walking down South Main street at about eight o'clock. As they came opposite Grubb's grocery store several young men passed. One of them threw his arm about the neck of Osmond's sister.

"Say, partner, what are you doing?" was Osmond's query?

For answer another of the young men struck Osmond with some kind of a sharp instrument. It inflicted a jagged wound in Osmond's nose, penetrating through to the nasal passage.

Neither Osmond, who is about nineteen years of age, or either of his sisters, is able to give an accurate description of the assailants. Both of them, it is said, wore short black overcoats, one wearing a derby hat, and the other a soft crush hat. They made their escape across the Court Street bridge. Dr. Merritt took several stitches in Osmond's injured member.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, March 2, 1863.—The capture of the Queen of the West has been confirmed. A newspaper correspondent, named Albert H. Bodman, was on board at the time and telegraphs an account of his escape. What became of the rest of the officers and men he does not say. The capture took place on the Red river, at Gordon's landing, about fifteen miles from the mouth of the Black river, on the evening of Tuesday, Feb. 17. The Queen of the West was accompanied by a small steamer, the DeSoto, formerly used as a ferry boat. In its new mission it carried a 30-pound Parrot gun.

BAPTISTS ENJOY GOSPEL SERVICE

SPECIAL MUSIC GIVEN BY QUARTET AND CHORUS.

ABLE SERMON BY THE PASTOR

Rev. Richard M. Vaughan's Evening Discourse Was on "The Hands of Jesus."

Two choirs assisted in making the gospel service at the Baptist church Sunday evening. An unusually interesting and pleasant one. Quite an elaborate musical program was given, both by the quartet choir and the chorus taking a prominent part. The service was enjoyed by a large congregation.

The chorus, under the able direction of W. E. Thresher, did some very excellent work. Their opening selection was "Shall the World Be Made Better?" by Lehman and later in the evening they sang "On Thee My Soul is Stayed" by Fillmore, with the contralto solo beautifully rendered by Miss Sadie Granger. The final vocal number was also given by the chorus and Miss Cora Anderson. This selection was especially beautiful, being Sweny's "My Savior First of All" in which Miss Anderson sang the solo.

Other Numbers

The quartet sang one splendid number, "Sing, O Heavens" by Tours, the vocalists in the quartet being Cora Anderson, Miss Elizabeth Palmer, E. E. VanPool and J. S. Taylor. Miss Anderson and Miss Palmer also sang a duet "The Lord is My Shepherd," by Smart and the congregation also heard with pleasure a tenor solo by W. E. Thresher, who sang, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say" by Rathbun for the offertory number.

One of the most enjoyable features of the evening was a violin solo by Oscar Halverson, who played Schubert's "Ave Maria" with delicacy of feeling. Miss Caldwell played the organ accompaniments for all the selections.

Sermon By the Pastor

For his sermon the Rev. Richard M. Vaughan chose "The Hands of Jesus," taking as his text a part of the fortieth verse of the twenty-fourth chapter of Luke. "And when he had thus spoken he shewed them his hands."

The hands are a wonderful instrument, a physiological miracle. They are the workmanship of God and the agencies of human progress, assisting the brain. The hand is an expression of character. So distinctive are the creases upon it that in some countries criminals are identified by the impression of the thumb instead of photographs of the fact. Next to the face, the hands are an index of character.

Hands of a Toiler

One of the first things to notice about the hands of Christ are that they are toll marked. For twelve years he worked at the carpenter's bench and the tools which he used left their registry on his hands. They were the hands of a workingman. The lot of the human race is toll in this country, one fourth of the population are dependent for their living on the daily wage.

Dignity of Labor

Looking at Christ's hands one gains a new conception of the honorableness of toll. He himself said that the greatest one is he that serves. Because he has looked at Christ's hands, Theodore Roosevelt has said "Woe to the man who pities the worker not woe to the man who works. The life worth living is the life of the man who works, who does, who serves.

Especially if labor is inspired by love it is the hand beautiful that performs it. Many a mother's hand with enlarged joints and stiffened fingers is beautiful because it has been engaged in deeds of unselfishness. After Christ entered the ministry his hand was often the instrument of service. He healed the sick, raised the dead and cleansed the lepers. None was so repellent as to cause Christ to shrink from laying on his hand.

Signs of Love

His hands are also full plied. He comes from the grave, conqueror, with the wounds healed but white on the palm—of the hands the scar remained. The scars mark them as the hands of him who loved the world and gave himself for it.

Outstretched Hands

His hands are also outstretched, merrily repeating his invitation "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." Today they are still outstretched in benediction. In his extended hands everyone may see an invitation to come to him and receive pardon, joy and a home in heaven.

GRANGE ORGANIZED SATURDAY EVENING

Rock River Grange of Patrons of Husbandry End Meeting with a Spread.

Organized under the charter of the Rock River grange, No. 36, for several years inactive, a very live and enthusiastic body of Patrons of Husbandry held their first self-congratulatory supper Saturday evening. The supper was only by way of bringing to a close an evening that was both abounding in pleasant intercourse and profitable in completing the organization of the grange.

Selection resulted in the choice of J. L. Bear, overseer; Miss Hayland, secretary; A. L. Gage, steward; Chas. Dixon, chaplain; C. Wilcox, treasurer; Fred Burton, gate keeper; Miss J. Bailey, lady assistant steward; Mrs. Gardiner, Celes; Mrs. A. McCullough, Pomona; Mrs. A. Gage, Flora.

C. Wilcox, who had at a previous meeting been chosen master, withdrew. J. L. Bear, overseer will act in the capacity of master until a successor is appointed.

Twenty-five charter members is the brag of the grange. This number is regarded as only the starter for a large and prosperous organization. Considering the length of time since the subject was first broached to the members, the results which have been attained are regarded as very creditable.

Meetings will be held in Good Templars' hall in the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month.

Sportsmen During Their Stay in This City

Carroll college fell an easy prey to the Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening. In the basket ball contest at the association gym the visitors were vanquished by a score of 26 to 11. Not a field basket was thrown by the collegians during the forty minutes of play. If it had not been for the fouls committed by the association men the Waukesha players would not have had look in.

After the first few minutes of play it was clear that the Janesville margin was only a question of the length of the game. Victory was assured from the outset. It was equally clear that Glycer of the opposing forces could make good on as many, or nearly as many free throws, as there were fouls called. On the north basket was Mathews'; but at the other end of the hall it was ridiculously easy for him to land the sphere in the net.

Influence of Gym
It is probably safe to say that the score was more or less influenced by the gymnasium in which the match took place. Every one will admit that the lighting handicaps a team which is not familiar with the place. At the same time the superiority of the locals was evident. Carroll was not confronted, as on the previous evening, by a team of lighter and shorter men. The association players had an evident advantage in several cases, and would probably have averaged heavier than their opponents. Even Zeeckler, who seemed able to reach a fabulous height in the high school match on Friday evening, was lost against Johnson at that game. Otherwise he played a star game, as did the majority of the visitors, but they could not connect with the basket, or even keep the ball at that end of the field.

Gentlemen Players
In the two days that they were in the city the Carroll college players won many firm friends and admirers by their clean, sportsmanlike spirit. There was none of the blustering and "sore headedness" that characterizes some teams.

Nothing but praise, and hearty praise it was, was accorded the association five. Their team work was clean and accurate and their passing speedy and without fumbling. A tendency to foul made their victory less marked than it need have been. In this respect the Spring City men were less at fault than were they.

Second Teams Play
As an auxiliary to the main event the second teams of the Y. M. C. A. and high school tested their strength. The result was a victory for the high school by a score of 13 to 10. While the standard of playing was considerably below that in the other contest, it was devoid of interest, and interest ran high toward the last when the prospects of both teams seemed equally good.

A Layman's Lenten Sermon

Fifth day of Lent: Matthew xii.—The same day went Jesus out of the house and sat by the seashore.

And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

But others fell upon good ground and brought forth fruit some a hundredfold, some sixtyfold and some thirty fold.

What can this parable of the sower tell us? The sower represents the teacher of the word of God, the seeds his method and manner of living and can pick his companions. If he chooses that of the thorns, the idle and worthless of this life he must reap, as he has sown. And when the sun was up they were scorched; and because they had no root they withered away.

And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up and choked them.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Possibly showers tonight and Tuesday warmer.

THE COAL SITUATION

As warm weather approaches it is perfectly natural that the supply of coal should increase, and that prices should decline.

The country has passed the period where one man's money, in the fuel market, is not as good as another's, and manufacturers and large consumers, as well as small dealers, are now solicited to buy direct.

Conditions in Janesville are very much as they have been in many sections of the country. The dealers, who have been able to secure coal at all, have been compelled to pay high prices, and when the supply increased and the market declined, they very naturally wanted to unload before reducing the retail prices.

In some places and especially in the vicinity of Chicago, the dealers stocked up on soft coal early in January and when hard coal commenced to arrive, it was held back or placed at prohibitive prices, until the soft coal could be unloaded.

The situation is peculiar and unlike any other that has ever come to the country. It has been possible, through the limited number of producers and dealers to dictate terms and prices, and the supply has been so short, and the demand so urgent that there was no appeal.

It would not have been possible to handle flour or meat, or any other necessity, in the same manner, and coal dealers as well as operators have been severely criticised.

Legislatures in various states have appointed committees of investigation in various towns and cities in transit has been confiscated and the laws that usually govern in business have been ignored.

Much of this criticism has been unjust, while some of it has been merited. Until within the past two weeks it has been impossible for a certain class of dealers to secure coal at the market price, and it has also been impossible for dealers of any class to secure more than a limited quantity.

During the past ten days, however, conditions are changed and coal is offered in the open market to all comers at reasonable prices.

Under date of February 25, a Janesville manufacturer received a letter from the Chicago, Wilmington and Vermillion Coal Co., soliciting orders for anthracite stove coal F. O. B. Chicago at $7.50 per ton. There is no good reason why this class of coal should not have been sold to Janesville consumers at $10 per ton for the past ten days.

The dealer may possess an ambition to unload high priced coal, before reducing prices, but there is no argument that the business world recognizes, in support of that sort of a proposition.

If the dealer had a year's supply on hand, and the market should advance 25 cents per ton he would advance with the market, and the public would offer no complaint. When the market declines he is expected to follow it, and in any other line of business competition and good business judgment would compel him to do so.

Every man in business expects to take his chances on market fluctuations. If a groceryman buys a carload of flour at $1.25 and it declines to $1.00, he does not expect the public to share the loss.

Some of the coal dealers made contracts to deliver coal last summer at prices that have resulted in heavy loss where the contracts were filled, but for this the public is not responsible. It was simply a question of error in judgment, and errors of this class are accountable for many losses in business.

In passing judgment it is well to remember that a local coal dealer in Janesville, or any other town, is not handling a gold mine. In ordinary years he works hard for a moderate competency, and very few of them ever amass a fortune.

Conditions this winter have been abnormal, and the dealer has been charged with a good many things of which he is not guilty.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
The creation of a Department of Commerce in the United States has awakened great interest in other countries and especially in the mother country, where our active but friendly rivalry in the world's markets is a subject of much attention, and the appointment of a minister of commerce for the United Kingdom is being urged. The London Chamber of Commerce Journal, the official organ of the London Chamber of Commerce, in a recent issue says:

"In this country the opinion was for long held that the best way to assist trade was to leave it severely alone and to rely upon the foresight, skill and energy of our merchants and manufacturers to maintain our prominent positions in the world's markets. Latterly, however, there has been a tendency to direct the attention of parliament more and more to commercial matters. It is unquestionable that the idea is rapidly gaining in strength that in many directions considerably more attention and assistance might be given by the state to extending trade than is at present accorded. In saying this, the fact is not overlooked that of recent years commercial questions have received increasing attention from the government, but the feeling is rapidly growing in intensity that what is really wanted is that they should be entrusted to a minister with full cabinet rank, who himself must be a business man, and whose sole duty, shall be to watch over, foster and support the vast trading and industrial interests of the country. We are now at a period of tense rivalry in trade; our merchants and manufacturers are face to face with the keenest competition that has ever been known; and that competition is daily developing. It is not remarkable, in view of the magnitude of the interests involved, that the United Kingdom—the greatest manufacturing and commercial nation in the world—has not in the cabinet a minister of commerce? In the United States, which may be looked upon as our most formidable competitor, and whose people are keenly alive to the necessities of modern commerce, the need for such a minister has already been fully recognized. Surely Great Britain cannot afford to lag behind, it rests with the business men of this country to present a united front in this matter and to make their wishes known, through their commercial organizations, in such a manner as to command the support of the government and the nation. That the conviction of the need for this appointment is steadily gaining ground appears to be undoubted. Several chambers of commerce have already expressed themselves in unmistakable terms in favor of the proposal, while the London and Halifax chambers have decided to move resolutions in support thereof at the annual meeting of the associated chambers to be held in London next March. Thus will be afforded an opportunity of obtaining a definite pronouncement of the views of the general body of commercial men throughout the kingdom, which cannot fail to materially influence the end in view.

The department of commerce, recently established by congress, is a practical move in the right direction. The interests of both trade and labor demand a tribunal of this class, and the country will receive a double benefit.

Congress has not accomplished very much in the way of important legislation, but it is doubtful if an extra session will be considered necessary. It depends largely upon what is done in the next day or two with one or two questions that should have been disposed of early in the session.

Why should there by undue haste about the primary bill? Important legislation is pending in both houses and there is nothing important about the primary bill, except that it should receive intelligent and careful consideration before the legislature adjourns.

It is probable that the senate will have to have that extra session they talked of despite the fact that extra hours have been taken by the senators in the hopes of making up the lost time.

It is a question whether that bus went into the lake at Madison the other night was not meant for the additional twenty-one employees for the senate and house. It is rumored so at any rate.

HOLD-UP NEAR THE CITY LIMITS

TWO MEN ARE ASKED FOR COIN AT REVOLVER'S POINT.

WAS EVIDENTLY AN AMATEUR

Would-be Captain Scarlet Got No Money, and Was Very Polite.

A hold-up almost within the city limits by a lone highwayman Saturday night, brought the men that were stopped to the realization, that it might be a good thing for a man doing much driving after dark, even in this thickly settled country, to go prepared for emergencies.

The hold-up has a number of peculiar circumstances about it and it is almost certain that one of the men would have lost his valuables had not the other man arrived just as he did.

How It Happened

Joseph Roach, who resides on the road to Mount Zion about two and a half miles from the city was one of the men held up and R. W. Williams of Peoria, Ill., an agent for the Port Huron Mfg. Co. was the other.

Mr. Roach left home about seven o'clock with a horse and buggy and started for Janesville. Nothing out of the ordinary occurred until he reached the ravine spanned by a bridge just beyond the Jackman farm about a mile from the fair grounds. As he drove down the slope to the bridge he noticed a man ahead of him on the bridge but paid no particular attention to him. He caught up with the pedestrian at the center of the bridge and as his horse came even with him, the stranger caught the lines and stopped him and at the same time covered Roach with his revolver and said, "Have you got any money, sir?" Roach said: "No, I haven't."

Aid Comes

Just at this time Mr. Williams who had been out towards Johnstown all day selling machinery and was late getting back to town came driving up at a fast clip. He did not notice Roach's rig until he was almost out and came near running the pole through the back of the buggy, but stopped his team in time to prevent it.

Second Hold Up

Just as he stopped he heard the man in the road say to Roach, "drive on sir" and the next thing he knew he was covered by a pistol and the robber asked, "have you got any money sir?" Williams said, "No sir," and the man did not try to search Williams, and noticing that Roach had not started said "drive on sir" and stepped back out of the way. Roach had got started by this time and Williams lost no time in following him and came into town right behind him.

Funny Feature

The funny thing about the affair, was that Williams thought Roach and the man were working together, and that Roach had stopped on the bridge to block his getting by. Roach thought that the man was working with the robbers behind him. Williams hunted up Roach after they reached town and they compared notes regarding the affair. They came to the conclusion that the only thing that saved Roach was Williams arriving just as he did, and Williams is satisfied that on account of Roach not going on when the highwayman told him give his money.

Not an Expert

The man is described as being of medium height, wearing a light colored soft hat and a dark overcoat. Roach could not describe his face, but Williams thinks he had a mustache. Both men got a good look at the revolver and think it was about the size of a .32-caliber gun. The man evidently meant business, but had too many outlets in his hands at one time so let them go.

Had Money

Roach had some money and a good watch with him and Williams had $42 in money and a valuable gold watch. Both men said they would have handed over their valuables, as the man had them where they could not make a move.

The Real Thing

The affair was reported to the city police, but they were inclined to make light of the matter and said it must be some amateur or tramp. Roach and Williams, however, are both satisfied that he acted enough like business to suit them.

FINAL RITES HELD FOR MRS. PARSONS

Former Resident of This City Was Interred in Oak Hill Cemetery Sunday.

All that was mortal of Mrs. C. L. Parsons, late of Duluth, Minn., but formerly Miss Cornelia Clemons, of this city, was tenderly laid in the last resting place in Oak Hill cemetery, on Sunday afternoon. Brief services in the grave were conducted by the Rev. A. H. Barrington, rector of Christ church, and those who officiated as pall bearers were Judge C. L. Fittell, George F. Kimball, A. C. Pond and H. H. Bliss.

The remains were brought from Duluth on Sunday morning and were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Parker of this city, and C. L. Parsons and Harry Parsons, the bereaved husband and son of the deceased. Seldom have such beautiful funeral offerings been seen in this city as those which covered the casket tucked with choice blossoms, almost concealing it entirely.

Mrs. Parsons left a husband and three children besides her father, R. J. Clemons, and her sister, Mrs. Geo. S. Parker of this city.

Miss Faye Patten, of Pipestone, Minn., and Miss Laura Banford, of Chicago, who have been the guests of Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Henderson for the past few days, returned to Chicago this morning.

WILL ASK FOR LINE EXTENSION

SINNISIPPI GOLF CLUB TO PETITION COMPANY.

SPECIAL MEETING IS CALLED

Will Then Make Proposition Ready for the Car Company's Meeting on Wednesday.

A meeting of the directors of the Sinnissippi Golf Club and also of the directors of the Sinnissippi Golf club and also of the directors of the Janesville Country club will be held this evening to formulate a petition to the Janesville street railway company asking them to extend their line during the coming season to the golf links.

Meet Wednesday

A meeting of the directors of the Sinnissippi Golf Club and also of the directors of the Sinnissippi Golf club and also of the directors of the Janesville Country club will be held this evening to formulate a petition to the Janesville street railway company asking them to extend their line during the coming season to the golf links.

Will Not Be Present but the Petition Will Be Sent to Him

Mr. Blabon will not be present but the petition will be sent to him by T. S. Nolan, who represents his interests in the road. Mr. Nolan will recommend that the extension be built and thinks that Mr. Blabon will act favorably on the proposition.

A Great Thing

It would be a great thing for the golf club to get this extension and it also would be one of the best paying extensions for the system. Considering the expense that the Golf club is under each year to maintain a bus to connect with the car line, they could almost guarantee the railroad company a certain percentage on their investment and then be money ahead.

is Much Wanted

The club members are anxious to get this extension and will no doubt make a determined effort to get it.

LAUREAN SOCIETY INITIATES FOUR

Freshmen Are Received Into the Girls' Literary Society of the High School.

On Saturday evening, Misses Gladys Heddles, Julia Lovejoy, Bethany Yates and Margaret Goodwin, members of the Freshman class at the Janesville High school, were received into the Laurean society, the young ladies' literary organization connected with the school.

For over a week past these young candidates have been the servants of the members of the society, performing all sorts of menial tasks for them and Saturday evening the final ceremonials were held in the presence of the assembled society. Blind-folded the initiates were conducted into a mysterious underground room where they were compelled to amuse the society with original speeches and poems.

Banquet and Toasts

This ordeal over the initiates were led upstairs to the dining room at the home of Miss Elisabeth McKey, where a banquet was served in their honor. The long table extended through two rooms and was handsomely decorated with festoons of pink crepe paper, candelabra bearing pink shaded candles, and a great bouquet of pink carnations, the society's flower, with one of the fragrant blossoms at each plate.

DON'T MISS PRETTY PEGGY

It is one of the best bookings which Manager Myers has secured this season. Its popularity is beyond all question and the production has received only the highest praise. Miss Grace George has made a decided hit in this catchy performance and there is every reason to expect a crowded house to greet her.

Oath Is Taken

The initiation ceremonies came to a close in a very pretty and impressive manner, the initiates taking the oath of membership before an altar strewn with fern leaves and pink carnations. Miss Helen Estes, president of the society, gave the obligation.

MOTHER GIVES CLEW TO MURDER

WOMAN TOLD HER SON-IN-LAW

Latter informed the Police. Who placed the Self-confessed Slayer of Women and Children Under Arrest at Indianapolis.

Cincinnati, O., March 2.—To save the life of his fourth wife the aged mother of Alfred A. Knapp, the self-confessed murderer of five women and children, gave the clew which delivereded her son into the hands of Justice and will in all probability lead him to the electric chair. This fact was developed by the Cincinnati police in their search for evidence of the murders of Emma Littleman, Mark Eckert and Jennie Conners, the crimes committed here, to be used in case the murderer is tried here and not at Hamilton.

Confesses to Mother.
The son, in a letter which the police are now trying to secure, confessed to his mother all of his past crimes. She, confronted by the possibility which seemed almost a certainty of permitting her son to add another to his list of murders or of seeing him in the hands of Justice, told all to her son-in-law, E. F. King. His suspicions had already been aroused and he started the investigation which led to Knapp's arrest at Indianapolis.

Every effort is being made to recover the letter from Knapp to his mother. Mrs. Sadie Wenzel, sister of the prisoner, says that it was burned together with all of Knapp's letters.

Clew is Quickly Followed.

When once the clew was given justice followed on the trail of Knapp and his arrest was a matter of but a short time. King, accompanied by Detective Eugene Rankin of Cincinnati, went to Hamilton and after seeing Mr. Goddard and others communicated with Captain Lenehan of the Hamilton police, who arrested Knapp in Indianapolis, and the same night Knapp confessed to choking Hannah Goddard and the next day to strangling four others.

It required no urging to induce King to be the direct cause of his brother-in-law's arrest. King had suspected Alfred of former murders, but on account of the appeals of the family was restrained from calling the attention of officers to the cases. When it came to disappearance of wife No. 3 neither Mr. nor Mrs. King could suppress their suspicions. Hannah Goddard had lived with them and was regarded as a daughter.

Separates Sisters.
Mrs. Sadie Wenzel tells a different story of the method of Knapp's apprehension; one in which the mother does not figure at all. She says King came to her house and said he had put the Hamilton police on the trail because Alfred had robbed him. King claimed that Alfred took his revolver and other things when he visited them. Mrs. Wenzel blamed her husband to have Alfred arrested. She also blamed Hannah Goddard Knapp with separating Mr. Wenzel, who now lives in Chicago, and herself.

Mrs. King, in her interview, stated that Alfred wrote Mrs. Wenzel some time ago that Hannah was now out of the way. Mrs. Wenzel denies receiving such a letter. The counter statements of the sisters are attracting much attention here, and it is thought that one may be called at Hamilton by the prosecution, while there is no doubt of the other being for the defense.

The family all agree in their statements about Alfred being insane, but they differ in other matters. His father says Alfred will be better off dead than alive, but his mother worries over such an ending.

His brother, Cyrus, and his sister, Mrs. Wenzel, are doing all they can for his defense, and created so much sympathy in the neighborhood for their aged parents that the Knapp home is thronged with visitors and filled with flowers.

FIND ALUMINUM IN ILLINOIS

Discovery of Valuable Clay Made on Farm Near Barrington.

Waukegan, Ill., March 2.—The vicinity of Barrington is excited over the report that the clay thereabouts has been found to contain aluminum in considerable quantities. A deposit of clay which it is thought will produce a fair grade of aluminum has been found on the farm of H. H. Miller, bordering on Randall's lake, about two and a half miles west of Barrington. Samples of the clay are now being tested in Chicago to ascertain its value. Miller is reported to have offered a large sum for his thirty-nine acres of land, and if the tests prove that the clay is really as believed, there will be boom in land prices thereabouts, and general prospecting for beds of the valuable clay.

JEHU BAKER DIES AT BELLEVILLE

HE WAS A UNIQUE CHARACTER

Conceded to Have Been Scrupulously Honest by His Most bitter Enemies—He Paid Interest on Open Accounts and Asked No Special Favor.

Belleville, Ill., March 2.—Jehu Baker, former member of congress, died at his home in this city yesterday at the age of 81 years. He had been ill for several days and his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Baker's death removes a unique figure from Illinois political life. He had been a member of congress three different times, in 1865-'69, 1887-'89, and in 1897-'99, being the only man who ever defeated "Horizontal Bill" Morrison. In 1878 he was appointed United States minister to Venezuela by President Hayes, and in 1882 was reappointed by President Arthur.

Was Strictly Honest.

In public life as in private life he was almost wholly unique, because he was punctiliously honest and conscientious. His most bitter enemies never questioned his honesty. After half a lifetime spent in the public service he is as poor or poorer than when he entered it.

He carried his punctiliousness to the smallest affairs of life. He is probably the only man who ever voluntarily paid interest on small accounts with tradesmen. It was his invariable custom to do this.

Paid Interest.

Not long ago he ran a small account at a local drug store. It amounted to only a few dollars, and had stood only a little while.

One day he dropped in and asked what was the amount of the bill. The druggist looked over the book and told him. Mr. Baker figured a moment on a prescription blank, said all right, and counted out a sum in excess of that named by the druggist. The latter called attention to what he supposed was Mr. Baker's mistake.

"The excess," said Mr. Baker, "is interest at the rate of 6 per cent."

Rights a Wrong.

When the conductor of a street car refused to accept fare from him because he was a congressman, he had the car stopped and got off and walked.

Once a woman high in the social life of the capital, the wife of an official, wrote to him, asking for a few francs to be used in a strictly philanthropic way. He sent the francs, but after he had done so he tried the case over again in his own mind, found himself guilty of a wrong act, and set himself to right it.

He wrote to the woman that on mature thought he had decided that it would not be right, even in the cause of charity, to permit the use of the official francs for other than official business. He requested her to return them, and she did so.

For over a year Mr. Baker had been almost blind, owing to the growth of catarracts over both of his eyes.

WOMAN MAY BE THE MURDERER

Death of Edwin L. Burdick Continues to Puzzle the Police.

Buffalo, N. Y., Mar. 1.—The body of Edwin L. Burdick, who was murdered at his home on Ashland avenue last Thursday night, was taken to his former home in Canastota, N. Y., near Syracuse for burial. The authorities have not given out any information as to their work in attempting to run down the murderer. The police are inclined to the theory that the crime was committed by a woman.

Major Packard Dies.

Bloomington, Ill., March 2.—Major Packard, who enjoyed the distinction of practicing law in this city longer than any other man, is dead. For nearly sixty years he had been before the courts of central Illinois. He was contemporaneous with Lincoln, Sweet, Douglass, Davis and other great lights.

Shoots His Kin.

Jonesboro, Ga., March 2.—William Farmer, deputy sheriff of Clayton county, shot and killed his father-in-law, James Christian, mortally wounded his wife and attempted to kill his son. The man then killed himself.

May Play on Sunday.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 2.—The house practically killed Britain's bill to prohibit baseball playing on Sunday when it adopted an amendment by Hück to prohibit football on that day but to permit baseball.

Grecian Excavation.

Paris, March 2.—President Lobet has contributed 10,000 francs, in addition to the 2,000 francs previously donated for the extension of French excavation work in Greece, principally at Delos.

Fire at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 2.—Fire in a Pere Marquette warehouse destroyed $75,000 worth of twine and machinery, $17,000 worth of sugar and $20,000 worth of furniture.

Italy's Commerce.

Rome, March 2.—The Italian imports for 1902 totaled $354,848,112, an increase of $11,150,394 over 1901. The exports were $294,431,650, an increase of $17,690,061 over 1901.

Champion "Square" Man.

George Morris of Holbrook comes mighty near being a square man. It is said that he measures 4 feet 10 inches from the top of his head to the point of his big toe, and 4 feet 10 inches around his body at what soldiers term the salient point.

STABLE DISINFECTION.

Method of Performing a Seminal Act of Cleanliness.

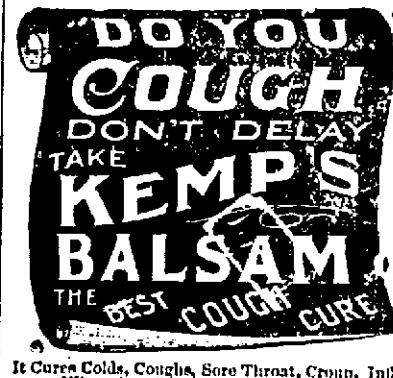

The disinfection of stables after a period of constant use should be a part of routine practice. Dairy stables in particular should be disinfected twice a year and oftener if the conditions demand it, says Dr. A. W. Bitting of Purdue experiment station at Lafayette, Ind. It is not possible to give many stables that thorough disinfection that is possible in houses, because their construction will not admit of it, but it is possible to do very much and at little expense.

The ideal method of disinfection is by means of a gas, as that would have the power to penetrate everywhere.

The effectiveness of this method depends upon securing a large volume of gas and maintaining it for some time. Unless the stable can be made tight a gas will be of little use. For all practical purposes the gas produced by burning sulphur over a pot of coals is the best, if used in connection with steam. The dry sulphur fumes have little germ killing power, but when combined with the steam in the air they form a compound that is deadly. The boiling of water and burning of sulphur should go together. Formaldehyde gas is not so efficient for stable disinfection as many would have us believe. A very practical means of disinfection that may be used under almost every stable condition is by whitewashing.

This is not expensive for material and is very easily applied by means of an inexpensive fruit spray pump. The lime should be thoroughly slaked and strained through cloth and made just thin enough to work well through the nozzle. One man can apply two coats of whitewash with a pump and reach all parts of side and ceiling of a room in about one-fourth the time required with the brush. Whitewash will kill or hold the germs with which it comes in contact. It has the effect, too, of making the barn lighter and cleaner.

After the first spraying one application will usually be sufficient if given regularly. As the business of supplying milk to cities and creameries is of large proportions and depends upon cleanliness this precaution of disinfection should be regularly followed.

HOLD SESSIONS ON THE SABBATH*MUCH WORK FOR LAWMAKERS

Many Appropriation Bills Await Action of Senators and Representatives, Who Will Meet Continuously Until Noon of Wednesday Next.

Washington, March 2.—The Senate yesterday held a memorial session in honor of Representatives Otey of Virginia, Moody of North Carolina, Rumspele of Iowa and Tongre of Oregon. The Senate has more than enough work to keep it occupied during the last week of the session, which will close at noon Wednesday. The Senate will be in almost continuous session day and night until then. Of the supply bills, the sundry civil, postoffice, naval and fortifications bills are still in the hands of conference committees, but there are no important points in dispute.

General Deficiency.
The general deficiency bill is the only one of the appropriation bills that has not passed the Senate. Consideration of the Aldrich financial bill will occupy much of to-day and may run well into the night. There will be a determined effort to get the Philippine bill in shape to send to the President before the final adjournment, but this may depend upon the fate of the financial measure.

Canal Treaty.
A final attempt will be made to press the Panama canal treaty to a conclusion in the hope that Senator Morgan may relent in his opposition and allow the treaty to be ratified rather than force an extra session of the Senate. His friends say, however, that he has no such intention, and they add that he is willing to accept the full responsibility for a called session. Senators generally, therefore, have given up all hope of avoiding an extra session for the ratification of the canal and Cuban treaties.

Democrats Filibuster.
The House yesterday, continuing the legislative session of last Thursday, finally disposed of the District of Columbia appropriation bill and the Alaska homestead bill. Filibustering by the Democrats occupied much time. Representative Shattuck, chairman of the immigration committee, introduced a resolution for the consideration of the immigration bill reported from the Senate. Another resolution introduced by Representative Gibson of the House committee on Invalid pensions contemplates a rule for the consideration of pension bills amended by the Senate under which only a motion to concur will be in order.

Conference Reports.
The Democrats of the House have decided to prosecute their filibuster until Congress expires and on the three remaining days business probably will have to be transacted in the face of every obstacle that the minority can interpose. It is believed, however, that ample time remains to get through the conference reports on the remaining five appropriation bills. There is slim chance for much beyond that.

Senate Bills Die.
Twenty-seven bills with Senate amendments are on the speaker's table. One or two of these may get through, but the great majority are doomed to die where they are. The one bill in which the Republican leaders are particularly interested is the Aldrich financial bill, and if it comes over from the Senate a way will be found, probably through the operation of a special rule, to secure action on it. It is believed that the immigration bill which passed the Senate in amended form also will be acted on.

HOLD SUNDAY SESSIONS.Crowds Assemble to See Law Makers Work on the Sabbath.

Washington, March 2.—Both houses of congress were in session yesterday, and great crowds assembled at the capitol to see the statesmen at work on a Sunday afternoon. When Sunday falls on the 3d of March it is not uncommon for congress to transact business on that day, because by law the short sessions terminate at noon on the 4th of March, and there is always a lot of work to be done in the expiring hours. It is unusual, however, for either house to transact legislative business on Sunday when there is a day or more intervening between it and the 4th of March. The House of Representatives was forced, in the judgment of the Republican leaders, to break the precedent of recent years by holding a five-hour session. This was considered necessary in view of the Democratic opposition, which continues its filibustering and by demanding roll calls is causing much delay. The Senate was also in session, but only to deliver eulogies on deceased members.

GETS ALASKAN BILL.

Conference Agreement on Measure Is Presented to House.
Washington, March 2.—The conference agreement on the Alaskan homestead bill presented in the House strikes out the Senate provision prohibiting the use of soldiers' additional homestead rights in Alaska, leaving the law as it now exists. It limits the use of script to tracts not exceeding 160 acres, and reserves from such location along navigable or other waters tracts of not less than 80 rods in width between such entries. The amendment of the Senate as to commutation of homesteads is so modified that while homesteads of 360 acres may be taken, only 160 acres may be committed. The Senate amendment relative to surveys is substantially accepted.

Provides Funds.

Washington, March 2.—A joint resolution introduced in the house by Representative Dalzell and referred to the committee on rules provides for continuing appropriations in the event of the failure of any of the supply bills to pass at this session. While there is time within which to pass all the appropriation bills, under the conditions now existing in the House, the conference report must be accepted in whole by that branch. It is reported that there is a disposition on the part of the conferees on one or two of the appropriation bills not to yield, and the aim of the resolution is to provide against the contingency of a disagreement of any conference committee. Five appropriation bills remain to be acted on—the agricultural, post-office, fortifications, sundry civil and naval.

May Leave Treasury.

Washington, March 2.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Milton E. Alix, who was private secretary to Secretary Gage and was promoted to his present position to succeed Assistant Secretary Vanderlip, will probably retire from the government service to become a vice president of the Riggs National Bank of this city. The New York bank of which Mr. Vanderlip is vice president has recently purchased a quarter interest in the Riggs Bank, and should Mr. Alix enter it he will be the representative of that bank.

Discuss Battle Ships.

Washington, March 2.—Although the senate and house conferees on the naval appropriation bill were in session for three hours the question of whether the battle ships authorized at this session of Congress shall be 12,000-ton types, as carried by the senate bill, or 16,000-ton, as provided in the house bill, was not touched upon.

Mrs. Roosevelt Returns.

Washington, March 2.—Mrs. Roosevelt, who has been spending several days at the Groton, Mass., school with her two sons, Theodore, Jr., and Kermit, has left there for Washington. She was accompanied by her daughter Ethel and a maid.

Judge Day Arrives.

Washington, March 2.—Judge William R. Day, who is to succeed Justice Shiras of the Supreme court, has arrived in Washington.

LAW DECISIONSRegulating Hours of Employment

The questions arising under the clause of the constitution forbidding any state to deprive a person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, furnish the most interesting problems in modern constitutional law, with the exception, perhaps, of the questions arising out of the relations of the United States with its insular possessions. In

State vs. Buchanan, the contention was made that the state law interfered with the liberty of contract, but the Supreme Court of Washington holds that an act providing that no female shall be employed in certain business establishments more than ten hours in a day does not violate this constitutional provision, but is within the police powers of the state. 70 Pacific Rep. (Washington) 62.

Contempt—Applying Abusive Epithets to Judge

The strong stand taken by the United States court in West Virginia in reference to the action of the miners in that district during the recent coal strike is well known. A case growing out of the situation is that of the United States vs. Gehr, where it was held that a man who came into a federal district from a distant state for the purpose of exciting a strike among the miners, and who there publicly denounced the judge of the district for his official action in granting an injunction, using abusive language, and applying appropriate epithets to him personally, is guilty of a contempt of court.

In the circuit court of appeals of the eight circuit, Judge Sanborn has most vigorously assailed the proposition that "contempts of court are public offenses, pardonable like any other." Two county judges were ordered by mandamus from a circuit court to levy a tax for the payment of a judgment against the county. The judges refused, were imprisoned, and filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The court refused to stay the proceedings in order to allow a petition to the president for pardon, holding that the commitment was not in the execution of the criminal laws of the nation, but was to secure to a suitor his legal rights, and that therefore the president was without power to pardon. (In re Nevitt, 117 Federal Rep.) 448.

Telephone Companies—Assumption of Liabilities

An independent telephone exchange in Detroit was absorbed by an older company. For a time subscribers were given an interchangeable service, but eventually the service of the company absorbed was crippled and the subscribers cut off from connection with the purchasing company. In a suit by a subscriber whose connection with the old company had been cut off, it was held that the purchasing company assumed all the obligations of the company absorbed and is compelled to give the subscriber telephone connection over all lines with as good service as it gives to all of its other subscribers. (Mahan vs. Michigan Telephone Co., Supreme Court of Michigan, Feb. 17.)

Badly Affected.*Liable to Paralytic Stroke.*Dr. Miles' Nervine Gave Me New Life.

"This is to certify that I have used Dr. Miles' Remedies quite extensively, especially the Restorative Nervine, which has done wonders for me. Six years ago I had nervous prostration and again three years ago, at which time I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I kept taking it for six months and have taken an occasional dose during the last two years. I am practically a new man and feel that I have been given a new lease of life. I used to have very bad attacks of stomach trouble but since using the Nervine I can eat most anything I want with impunity. I was examined in Omaha by a noted German doctor three years ago. He told me I was liable to a paralytic stroke any moment, that my whole left side was badly affected. That was just before I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. My work for two years and a half has been very trying on my nerves. I am a presiding elder, traveling my districts at the rate of ten thousand miles a year, preaching on an average of five times a week, besides many business meetings, and the multitudinous cares of my work in general. Thanks to Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine I have been gaining in flesh despite this hard work until now I weigh a hundred and ninety-six pounds, nearly twenty pounds more than in all my life. I preach Nervine wherever I go to those afflicted with nerve, heart or stomach trouble!"—Rev. M. D. Myers, Presiding Elder, Free Methodist Church, Correctionville, Ia.

Why Cattle Prices Have Fallen.

From Farmers' Review: I have made some personal investigations concerning the cattle trade and its demoralized condition as to prices in the face of plenty of feed, and find that a very great many bought cattle early in the fall to feed, thinking at the then high prices for fat cattle it would be good paying business to feed cattle cheap corn, and there was seemingly no choice for the many farmers with frost bitten corn except to feed it to cattle. Now under these conditions there was an unusual amount of cattle put into the feed lots with the expectation of marketing them before the first of the year, judging by the class of feeders used, which was invariably the 1,000 to 1,200 pound kind. As there were a great many young feeders forced into the business on account of soft corn it was necessary to borrow the money to buy the cattle. This money was borrowed only for a short time. Now these cattle all had to get to market at about the same time, as the men could not hold them after their corn was fed out and money due. So, not being fixed with shelter, etc., the cattle were sent to market. This explains for the soft corn cattle. Now for the men who could hold their cattle. They encounter a still harder proposition. The close of every week finds the market lower and as yet no advance even under moderate receipts. This means that the continuous depression in cattle prices has caused even the most long winded and experienced feeders to lose faith and stop cattle, as it is impossible to hold cattle after they are ready to go, in the face of the above facts.

This trade has all been manipulated to such a degree as to shut the feeder out of his just profits and instead cause practically all to lose money, and yet the consumers have almost the same prices to pay as when cattle on foot were bringing two to three cents per pound more money. To prove this you have only to ask your retailer the prices for your table supply. Furthermore you can see by present quotations that the English markets are paying almost exactly the same prices for cattle on foot as they were one year ago, and the price on this side is about 2 cents per pound less for export steers. You may then ask why the feeders and shippers do not go into the export business. I can tell you it is not because they are not smart enough or do not care to take the risk, as you may suppose. The reason is the space in the cattle ship is all taken by a favored few and an outside man cannot get space to export his cattle. I know this to be true, as I have tried and have been turned down with the statement, "No space to be had," or "Space all contracted." Then I have had men of national reputation, and men who have exported, use their influence to assist me to get boat privileges and they, too, have failed. This will prove my first statement that the trade has been and is manipulated. Until the feeders wake up to the situation and attract the public's attention through the press and every other channel there will be no stability to prices. But when all facts are generally known then the cattle men may depend upon at least a steady market for some time to come.—H. F. Pinnell, Edgar County, Illinois.

No Horseless Age Yet.

There is no danger of a horseless age at this time nor in the near future. If it ever comes it will be when conditions are far different from those existing at the present time. There are thousands of uses to which the horse is put where no form of mechanical force can be substituted. No machine can think, and this is very necessary in some forms of force as used on the farm and in the channels of commerce. The carriage horse drags the carriage through the snow, up the hillsides where the footing is bad, picking his way with a keen intelligence. When the mud is deep and sticky he pulls the wagon laden with produce from the farm. The mechanical force would be at a standstill in situations that are not headed by the horse. Even through the soft sand the horse picks his way with his rider. If need be the horse can create energy out of the grass that grows by the wayside, and he can do it for a week, a month or a year. He can carry his master thousands of miles with this as the only source of force supply. The machine is helpless as soon as the supply of high-class, artificial energy-producing material gives out. There was a flurry a few years ago among the buyers and sellers of carriage horses because some one had started the theory that the horse was about to be discarded by man for power that could live on coal and oil. Some farmers even listened to this rumor and stopped breeding horses, only to find in a few years that horses were commanding a high price and they had none to sell. The wise farmer will go right on breeding fine carriage horses and the best quality of drafts.
